Severe Release in Nehru Freed; Row Is Sheaved

NEW DELHI, (AP)—Jawaharlal Nehru, president-elect of the All-India Congress party, temporarily dropped his dispute with Kashmir authorities Saturday. The controversy had resulted in widespread strikes and disturbances and the deaths of two persons in rioting in Madras.

Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, Congress party president, received a telegram from the chieftain-elect saying he was accepting Azad's instructions to drop the dispute and return to New Delhi, "on the understanding that I come back to Kashmir."

Nehru was arrested Thursday in the princely state of Kashmir when he attempted to intervene in action by the Kashmir national conference against Maharajah Sir Hari Singh, wealthy Hindu ruler of the overwhelmingly Moslem state. Sheikh Abdullah, leader of the movement agitating for abdication of the Maharajah, has been accused of sedition, and strikes and demonstrations occurred as a result of his arrest.

Nehru was arrested when he defied a district magistrate's order banning him from the state.

The Congress party's working committee has been stalled in its negotiations with the British over the future of the independence and interim government proposals as a result of Nehru's detention.

A dispatch from Srinagar, capital of the state of Kashmir, said Nehru had been freed and is at a bungalow at Chinari, 10 miles from Srinagar. This morning, a plane, a state car and other facilities have been placed at his disposal.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of the Congress party, said Viceroy Lord Wavell is trying to have Nehru returned to New Delhi as soon as possible.

Rush to Buy Formal Dress

LONDON, (Reuters)—After six years of economic and political restrictions, London's male population has gone wild over formal dress, according to managers of London clothes firms.

Warns Against Mortgage Loans

JASPER, (CP)—A. D. Love president of the Mortgage Loans association of Alberta, in an address to the annual meeting of the association Friday said that building costs and the sale of new houses are inflated at present and issued a warning against mortgage loans based on present sale prices.

"The increase in the cost estimates of builders and in the sale of new houses is greater than the increase in wages in the construction industry and in the price of building materials," he said.

"This is due to such factors as inefficient labor and construction delays arising out of the short supply of materials, the cost of fuel, of house, there is a further element, namely the premium which is being charged for vacant possession. These factors represent inflation."

Panic Occurs; Damage Heavy

DALLAS, Tex., (AP)—A terrific explosion that shook downtown Dallas Friday wrecked the basement and part of the first floor of the Baker hotel, killing seven persons and injuring 41 others.

Panic followed as employees and guests, some trapped in the basement, rushed from the hotel through lung-burning fumes and smoke.

The blast, worst in Dallas' history, occurred in a small sub-basement room during installation of a new refrigeration unit.

The hotel kitchen, in the basement above the room, was wrecked. An insurance firm estimated damage at several hundred thousand dollars.

Some employees escaped through manholes. Guests from the upper floors were evacuated quickly. All available police, firemen and ambulances were rushed to the scene, and the main streets were blocked off to traffic.

Two of the injuries occurred when two excited girls stepped in front of a police car rushing to the scene. They were taken to hospital.

Heavy fumes of acrid smoke forced firemen to don gas masks. Once inside, they were further hampered by a slippery footing of food and an estimated $8,000 to $10,000 in beer and liquor.

Doubt Final Decisions Made On Next Thursday's Budget

By Torchy Anderson
OTTAWA—Budget guessing is at a discount.

Past experience with budgets by Hon. J. L. Hiley leads to the suspicion there are often changes up to the last 24 hours and up to date there are fewer "experts" than usual out on the lines of speculation.

Among members of parliament some relief in personal taxation is expected. Many think it will take the form of larger exemptions, thus benefiting the lower bracket taxpayers. It is said this was contemplated last fall but a last-minute decision made it a straight across-the-board reduction.

It has been predicted the excess profits tax may vanish.

Radical reform in the whole system of personal income tax payments are expected by many.

It is believed that government has framed new legislation for the taxation of co-operatives but this is still under consideration. It will be included in this budget.

The fact that the policy pay budget from Tuesday to Thursday may indicate all decisions are not yet made.

Consider Change Court Procedure

By H. R. Hardy
OTTAWA—While he thought Alberta citizens' juries were as good as 12-man juries, A. L. Smith, Premier of Alberta, suggested to Justice Minister Louis St. Laurent in the Commons Friday that the law should be changed to put him in the same position as he would be in any other part of Canada.

Alberta, when selecting a jury, the defence was permitted only six challenges while the crown was permitted up to 40 or 50 challenges.

Every other province permits 35 challenges, said Mr. Smith. Mr. St. Laurent said he fully agreed the provisions for the trial of a man charged with murder should be the same in all provinces.

"And I shall endeavor to have parliament do something about it at this session," said the minister.

Admitting it would be difficult to get the necessary votes for the change, Mr. St. Laurent said there were occasions when the public interest required that a case be tried by a jury of some other functions for the state.

During the war, said the minister, there had been a great many things which could not be dealt with by the ordinary processes of the courts, yet they required to be dealt with by "gentlemen of the same temperament, learning, standing, ability and reputation."

He said that Minister Mitchell had just announced appointment of Mr. Justice Richards of the court of appeal of Manitoba, to conciliate the shipping strike.

Chief Justice Gauthier, of British Columbia, had just succeeded in bringing together the operators and employees in the steel industry of that province. A judge of the appeal division of the court of Alberta was asked to chairmen the labor relations board. This was the important type of many judges had been called upon to do.

The Biggest Order Ever

Federal officials hope to be able to move 1,000,000 tons of coal between now and next spring from Alberta and eastern British Columbia mines to markets in Ontario. This huge amount will cost $100 million, but the 1,000,000 tons which the central provinces ordinarily import from the United States and Canada is a fraction of which they can hope to obtain this year.

But a million tons is thought to be as much as the railways will be able to handle in addition to the prospectively heavy crop of grain. It is also suggested that a small amount of coal as can be spared for eastward shipment after taking care of western needs.

This is to say that Alberta operators and miners do not have to do any worrying about where they can sell the output of the mines during the summer, fall and winter. Ontario bankers and bins can accommodate all that will be able to supply. One also gathered from the fact cited that it will be advisable to rush every possible ton to eastern consumers, and that the railways have to tackle the grain movement.

Scientists' Salaries

For a quarter of a century and more, Canadian scientists and the Canadian public generally have been reporting the tendency of Canadian salaries to lag behind those of the United States.

This drain has been excessive and serious. At one time it was estimated that more than 80 percent of Canadian-trained scientists found their way immediately into American laboratories.

Now the National Research Council of Canada is advertising for biochemists and this is what it says:

"Depending on qualifications as outlined below, the positions will be classified as Assistant Research Biologist, Grade 1, with a salary range of $2,800 - $3,000 per annum, or Associate Research Biologist, Grade 2, with a salary range of $3,480 - $3,720 per annum. Annual increments for both grades are $120 per annum."

The council then goes on, in this advertisement, to recite the qualifications for the Assistant Research Biologist, Grade 1, a Ph.D. or equivalent from a university of recognized standing with the years of research experience; demonstrated ability to perform the duties outlined above.

"For the Associate Research Biologist, Grade 2, a Ph.D. or equivalent from a university of recognized standing with five years of research experience; demonstrated ability to perform the duties outlined above. It should be noted that almost everybody that there is demonstrated right here one of the striking reasons why Canadian scientists carry their training and their knowledge outside the country."

The Sensitive CBC

Mr. Ernest Bushnell, director-general of programming for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, has been complaining to the radio committee of the House of Commons with dark hints about a sinister campaign "to undermine public confidence in the CBC."

Both Mr. Bushnell and the organization he so capably serves are unduly sensitive, perhaps significantly sensitive. Surely their touchy feeling about the criticism of the CBC is a bit unusual in view of the fact that the Canadian public contributed $1,800,000 towards the upkeep of the CBC last year. How can anyone hope to deprive the public of the right to complain about what they pay for so handsomely?

It is hard to understand how any mysterious plot can be read into a reasonable amount of wholesome discontent.

The C.B.C. has done a number of inexplicable things. It has refused commercial licenses to certain stations and given reasons that insult the public and intelligence. It has also treated its monopoly over broadcasting in Canada.

If the people of Canada represent their views (and it is evident in this case indicates a healthy and personal interest) surely they have a right to complain about what they pay for so handsomely.

Mr. Bushnell's and the CBC's intolerance of criticism is neither appropriate nor justifying of less cause for complaint.

Today in Europe

By Randolph Churchill.

ROME -- It's doubtful if any king on the point of losing his throne has ever been so popular as Humbert of Italy.

Two years ago, when Allied forces liberated Rome, King Victor Emmanuel III signed over his powers to Humbert, who was then Lieutenant General of the Realm. Previously, both Mussolini and Victor Emmanuel had denied any function of importance to Humbert. The King was an old-fashioned father who thought his son should occupy a completely subordinate position until he became King. Mussolini always opposed any political position being granted to Humbert because the Crown Prince was anti-Fascist, anti-German and democratic at heart.

But from the moment he became Lieutenant General of the Realm, he began to show qualities of a very high order. It is true these qualities were mostly negative. In circumstances of exceptional difficulty, he made hardly a single mistake. But no one who did not work for him would deny that he has rendered outstanding service to the cause of the United Nations and to the interests of the Italians.

Shallow people are apt to jeer at any form of monarchy and to represent it as reactionary and oppressive to the liberties of the people. But British liberty has been based on a progressive seizure of power by the people from the monarchy, and this has resulted in a situation in which the monarchy is the ultimate safeguard of the fundamental British liberties. By being above parties and classes, the British monarchy has become the final referee in the vital needs to freedom of the greatest free association of nations the world has ever seen.

I had this honor of receiving by Humbert after the referendum. I was struck by his selflessness and his charm. The Italians are a volatile, sentimental people. Hundreds, after the referendum, called upon him to stay in Italy. He followed him into exile. He gave the same reply to them all. "You are Italian, and your duty is to stay in Italy. I am your countryman. He not only said this to those who talked of leaving. He made it his business to seek out of the Italian people, and he must transfer to the republic the loyalty they feel to the House of Savoy."

But a good democrat and a good Italian. It is to be hoped Italy will show as much courage, civic spirit and humanity as has exhibited in the last two years.

Nobody's Child

By Dorothy Thompson

Bernard M. Baruch's recommendations to the U.N. Atomic Energy Commission, which he made at first reading, a radical way of dealing with the greatest problem of this or any other age: the problem of mankind from atomic destruction.

Mr. Baruch realizes the danger. Atomic power, weapons, and new inventions for biological warfare demand world control by one authority. In possession of controlling authorities, the world will live in fear; fear will create war; war will doom civilization.

Divided power is certain to result in war for the reason that no people will be able to endure the possibility of destruction by another state in any case. When two or more nations are standing with their hands on the switches, the least diplomatic action will result in a world war. If it happens, will establish one single power as master of the world. But what is left of mankind centuries to struggle back to its present condition.

The authority Mr. Baruch suggests is not a monopoly. Were it possible to delegate the power to the proposed "International Atomic Energy Commission," it would rule the world. But now? It would not represent the present monolithic, non-competitive power of the world, including the waiving of the veto, it could, as Mr. Baruch stated, distribute the atomic energy and inspect against their use for the manufacture of instruments of destruction.

But how is this committee, became suspicious of a violation by great power X. The committee would present the case to the Security Council and would then set a new form of the old power politics. The suspected country would raise points to a permanent committee on setting up a new subcommittee to check the first. The states would line up on two sides now. The committee would insist on setting up a new subcommittee to check the first. The states would line up on two sides now. The committee would insist on setting up a new subcommittee to check the first. The states would line up on two sides now.

Control of the authority would be the world's major struggle. Attempts to pack it would be speedily rejected. It would have faith in its impartiality. What we need is the courage to save the world from the horror of the atomic age. It is this now the state that survives the next war will. It will not appoint an authority from among the competing nations. It will have faith in its impartiality. What we need is the courage to save the world from the horror of the atomic age. It is this now the state that survives the next war will. It will not appoint an authority from among the competing nations. It will have faith in its impartiality.

The Road Ahead

By J. Harper Frowse M.L.A.

There are few people today who believe the country owes them a living. At the moment, a great many probably a large majority, believe the country must provide each individual an opportunity to live on his own living. Because of the complex nature of our society, with its complicated divisions, one of the chief problems facing us has much to do with the general welfare and prosperity of the country as a whole. Therefore, as government policy can, and does, affect the number of opportunities for employment, it seems only fair that it should insist that the government form and carry out its policies so that there will be no lack of work for all.

Another factor, not always discussed, is the fact that a great many believe themselves more capable than they are. And very few, if any, regardless of how much they may be the object of envy by less fortunate persons, admit that they are not good, living as they would desire, or believe themselves to be capable of acquiring.

Alfred Hogg, first UVA member elected to the Alberta legislature, will not be a candidate in the coming elections. He would prefer to continue working to the dominating place in time to file his papers.

There are not, according to official figures, sufficient opportunities for every Canadian. But at the beginning of May there were 243,000 Canadians looking for work, and there were 119,000 jobs unfilled. Some of those called for special qualifications which the job-seekers did not have. But many of those jobs were just jobs which the job-seekers didn't want.

The figures reveal that actually there are less than five percent of employables out of work. This gets as close to full employment as we can get. But we can expect to get.

City Taxes Rolling In

During the first five months of this year more than three-quarters of the total of 1946 municipal taxes have been paid. The amount collected, on all accounts, was $3,405,000, or half a million dollars more than in the same period last year.

Arrears collected came to $920,000, sales of city-owned land bringing in $750,000 of the total.

The tax-payment record of Edmonton property owners has been an impressive one in recent years. Last year, collections of taxes of all kinds totalled $5,522,000, compared with $5,200,000 in 1944. This year's total is likely to set a new record.

Significant also is the fact that just about 95 percent of the current levy was collected, compared with 93.75 in 1944, 92.22 in 1943 and 88.56 in 1942. Each year's collections of the million-dollar mark were as "excellent" at the time.

Last year's sales of municipally-owned land fell just short of the million-dollar mark. With sales this year already over $800,000, the 1945 figure is certain to be exceeded by a wide margin. The city's officials expect sales this year will bring in at least $1,500,000.

U.N. Veto Misused

Despite the criticism it has received, the provision in the United Nations Charter giving the great powers a veto over the decisions of the Security Council was necessary and inevitable. Without it neither the United States nor the Soviet Union would have entered the world organization. Nevertheless, the veto power is capable of abuse.

But how is this committee, became suspicious of a violation by great power X. The committee would present the case to the Security Council and would then set a new form of the old power politics. The suspected country would raise points to a permanent committee on setting up a new subcommittee to check the first. The states would line up on two sides now. The committee would insist on setting up a new subcommittee to check the first. The states would line up on two sides now.

Use in this instance was peculiarly unnecessary. All the great powers have agreed to a substantial agreement that the present Spanish regime was at least a potential menace to world peace, and that the United Nations should take action to replace it by a more civilized government. The only disagreement was over the means by which this should be done.

The majority wanted to follow the plan worked out by the subcommittee on Spain, which the matter was to be referred to the U.N. Assembly, in September. But the Soviet Union vetoed all the members break off diplomatic relations with Franco Spain.

This procedure, however, was not speedily rejected. It would have faith in its impartiality. What we need is the courage to save the world from the horror of the atomic age. It is this now the state that survives the next war will. It will not appoint an authority from among the competing nations. It will have faith in its impartiality.

Two New Chiefs of State

This week has seen the inauguration of two new chiefs of state in Europe. Georges Bidault has become president of France, while Edouard Benes has been re-elected president of Czechoslovakia.

These men have curious and significant resemblances. Both were originally university professors. Both rose to prominence as leaders of underground "national resistance" movements in their respective countries. Benes during the First World War, and Bidault during the German occupation of France after 1940.

Both are nationalistic, concerned about the independence and integrity of their nations. Both are comparatively radical in the economic views favoring the nationalization of industry and the extension of state control over the economy. Both are far from being Communists, have shown themselves prepared to co-operate with the Soviet Union whenever the national interest seemed to demand such a course.

In all these things, they are typical of the new leaders now rising to power in post-war Europe.

Benes has established himself, over thirty troubled years, as one of the ablest of contemporary statesmen. Bidault still has his name to make; but so far he has displayed remarkable ability and resolution.

For the moment, the destinies of both France and Czechoslovakia appear to be in strong hands.

Elie has purchased three corvettes for her navy, so as to have something to be neutral with in any future trouble.

B.C. Strike Unnecessary

The one fact of the British Columbia loggers' strike that sticks out like a sore thumb is that prospective loggers have been halted for a single day. The dispute could have been settled without a strike, and without the loss of time and physical inconvenience, if not actual suffering, the work stoppage brought to the loggers and operators, and to many forest workers in a dozen and one industries using forest products.

Many lines of business not related directly to lumber or pulpwood, such as retailers and fruit and vegetable growers, have felt the effects of the strike also. And the general public has been involved too, as in the case of families waiting to have new dwellings completed.

The machinery for reaching an agreement without a strike was at hand all the time. Without doubt the dominion and federal governments would have been ready to name Guy S. Sloan as conciliator or arbitrator when operators and union failed to reach an agreement by direct negotiation.

Both operators and union did finally accept Mr. Justice Gauthier's plan, which undoubtedly would have been the same had there been no work stoppage.

The conclusion is irresistible that the thirty-seven days' loss of earnings by 35,000 woodworkers of British Columbia was utterly avoidable, as was the reduction at a time when lumber is in very short supply, when housing is desperately needed, and when new crops are being rationed, not to mention other shortages.

The union leaders who did not do everything within their power to keep the production of the forests of British Columbia, even if they did not actually campaign in favor of a strike, are carrying a grave responsibility. If they do not realize it, the members of their union and the workers in the industry who are at their pay for days and weeks, should make them see it.

Coalitions Sustained

Recent progressive Conservative conventions in Winnipeg and Vancouver have strengthened the coalition governments of Manitoba and British Columbia respectively.

Some curious reports were circulated in some parts of Canada just before the Winnipeg convention that the younger element in the Progressive Conservative party in Manitoba was planning a revolt against the coalition. If there was a revolt, it was overblown.

Dr. Willis, provincial party leader and member of Mr. Gault's coalition government, was suspected of being a member of the group. Whether or not he was, the things he said was:

"Coalition has its weaknesses like all forms of government, but it also has great strengths and many praiseworthy features. As to the future, it would be a mistake to think that the coalition is a mere expedient. It is a new form of governmental machinery."

It is worthwhile to recall the purposes for which Mr. Bracken invited the Conservatives into a coalition in 1940, and why the coalition was accepted. The first objective was to unite to help in winning the war, the second to achieve a just dominion-provincial settlement on a basis of the St. Louis report. The first has been achieved; the second not yet. Therefore the coalition still has a purpose, and the Progressive Conservative leadership, in both federal and provincial fields, should favor withdrawal in Manitoba.

In British Columbia, the Progressive Conservatives selected Finance Minister Anscombe as party leader to succeed R.L. Maitland, who died recently. They also rejected a proposal to form a provincial coalition with the separate and distinct from the two major parties, preferring to continue in the coalition in a Progressive Conservative-liberal partnership.

The Vancouver Sun, Independent Liberal, says of Mr. Anscombe: "He brings new solidarity to the provincial government, and may, within a reasonable time, achieve the premiership itself."

Here and There

After the rains, "How Green is My Valley" is the title of the spots where the city piles old tin cans and other refuse to be destroyed, or stocks coal for the winter.

According to Arthur Guyard, at Ruerberg, Nazi pillaging in Holland was "officially" legal, and Hitler passed a law making it so. Crime would be so much simpler if all burglars had the same authority.

The Third Column

COMMUNISM IN U.S.A.

By Dr. Henry C. Link

NEW YORK — In recent months some American labor unions and labor-union leaders have raised the issue of Communism within their unions. Only a few days ago two of the executive officers of an electrical union on the west coast of the United States charged that the union was dominated by known Communists. On the other hand, some unions have gone definitely on record as repudiating Communism and even as being against having any known Communists elected as officers of their union.

In a nation-wide survey on the subject of Communism, it was found that union members even more than non-union members considered Communism a danger to the United States. In this survey, conducted by the Gallup personal interviews made from coast to coast, men and women were asked this question: "It is being said that Communism is becoming a dangerous thing in the United States. Do you think this is true or not?"

True	51%
Not true	34%
Uncertain	15%

When these answers were analyzed by union members and non-union members, and by managers of business as compared with non-owners, the results showed this interesting difference:

	UNION MEMBERS	NON-UNION
True	59	50
Not true	25	36
Uncertain	16	14

It has been claimed that the Communist propagandaists are concentrating on the labor unions as a means of stirring up strikes and industrial chaos so as to bring about Communism more this way. Therefore, it should not be surprising that union members, even more than non-union members, believe that Communism is becoming dangerous. However, the ownership class and those who have the largest financial stake in the capitalist system seem to be less concerned about the dangers of Communism than the rest of the people. This is shown when we analyze the answers of the public as follows, with the three columns being headed "dangerous," "uncertain" and "uncertain," respectively:

Owners, managers	43	46	11
White-collar workers	33	26	41
Skilled industrial	50	30	20
Semi-skilled	50	27	23

Every group, it will be seen, is more apprehensive of the dangers of Communism in the United States than is the ownership group. Whether or not the owners, and the wealthy that constitute less than 10 percent of the population are right, and whether 90 percent of the people are wrong, or vice versa, this survey does not enable us to conclude. It does seem that the minority who has most at stake in the way of property is least anxious to admit any threat to its ownership of this property, such as Communism represents.

PLENTY OF ROOM

Elora Express

He lives in an old house, with nine average-size rooms which just seems to accommodate four children, a dog, a cat and whatever other pets are current impromptu. He has a large house, while we have company and they ask why we live in a large house. So much work and so help, and all the other objections. But where, we ask you, do children play in these modern "landscapes" where do you entertain now when you stage a hockey game in a kitchen filled with sinks and cupboards or a boxing match in a hall which holds only the telephone? We have never been able to figure out what becomes of children and the adults who are left over in those small families.

Chamber Delegates Hear U.S. Leader

The current manner in which international relations are regarded was compared to purchasing an ambulance for future victims of accidents at a bad intersection, instead of doing something to clear away the dangerous crossing, in an address Friday by Henry Kearns, president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

SPEAKING BEFORE a luncheon meeting of the 11th annual convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada, Mr. Kearns told his 200 listeners that "we must take the responsibility of seeing that the representatives of our country take the proper interest in international affairs."
Introduced by Edward O'Connor, a good American and a good Canadian," the speaker asserted that "we've got a great thing in this junior chamber—we're able to give opportunities to young men by making your town and mine a better place to live in."

MR. KEARNS suggested that if a world junior chamber of commerce could be established, 25 years from now there would be an international organization functioning as does the present United Nations organization, made up of men who had availed themselves of the leadership training offered by the junior chamber and who had learned to understand and respect each other through working together for common principles.

Present at the luncheon were R. M. Moore, president of the Edmonton Kiwanis club; Gordon Henry, Rotary president; officials of the Hudson's Bay Company and Mrs. W. Campbell, president of the Ladies Jaycee club.
ENTERTAINMENT was provided by Loyal Roper and Miss Nancy Todd. The luncheon menu consisted of fish brought to Edmonton

Noted Musicians To be Examiners

Three well-known musicians will visit Alberta during June and July to act as examiners in the examinations of the Western Board of Music. Examinations will take place in various centres throughout the province. Candidates have shown a six-fold increase over those of last year.

FILMER HUBBLE, described as Winnipeg's soundest and most sensitive musician will examine for the board in the Edmonton area of the west.

After examining in Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge, Drumheller and Peace River, Mr. Hubble will act on the Diploma Board of the University of Alberta for the examination of A. Mus. and B. Mus. at the June-July sessions. From July 4 to August 13 he will act as lecturer in music at the Summer School of the University and will be in charge of one of the two music courses being given this summer in Edmonton.

You Have Room For An Extra Washroom

While there is no longer any question that a washroom or powder room on the ground floor is practically an essential in any modern home, the home that was built a few years ago without one sometimes poses a problem as to where such a room should be installed when renovating. A little imagination and ingenuity and the counsel of your plumber is all that is needed to solve most problems of this nature.

Under the stairs is one favorite spot. Another is the conversion of a coat closet. And still another is one end of the sun porch.

Three things should be kept in mind when planning such installations. First, it is more economical if the wash room can be built in a position where the greatest advantage is taken of existing plumbing, such as backing on or adjacent to the kitchen sink or directly beneath the upstairs bathroom. Secondly, the installation is made by partitioning off an end of the sun porch or in some other exposed area, proper care should be taken about insulation to prevent freezing in winter. And third, almost every community has local by-laws dictating the minimum size of the room, ventilation, fume-escape, etc.

Remember when choosing the fixtures for such a washroom that there are different shapes and sizes from which to choose, and see that your choice is best designed for the area and shape of the room available. In all these matters as well as in the choice of fixtures that will give you maximum value for money invested, your best counsel is your local plumber.

Guide to Home Building

Basementless Homes Attract Both Builders, Homeseekers

Basementless homes have been drawing much interest on the part of homeseekers and builders alike. It may not be long before homes of this type will not be considered too far a departure from the conventional path. The one pictured here is outstanding in all-around planning and exterior beauty. The sleeping quarters are marked by planning for privacy and contain three good-sized bedrooms with centrally located bathroom. A notable feature of the home is the unusually large living room.

Plan to Continue Traffic Check-up

The continent-wide traffic safety check campaign has been so successful here that Edmonton's traffic squad are considering continuing the campaign on a reduced scale after it officially comes to an end next Wednesday, Sgt. Albert E. Woodwards, stated Friday.

"THE TRAFFIC DRIVE, which has been running for five weeks, has produced a marked general improvement in the mechanical condition of vehicles on Edmonton streets," Sgt. Woodwards stated. "Now we have the motorists on their toes we would like to keep them that way."

Members of the traffic squad have been making daily "checks" on the mechanical condition of automobiles on city streets and when the drive concludes next week, they plan on continuing the checks about twice a week.

"SINCE WE STARTED the drive the daily average number of auto accidents has been more than cut in half, and by continuing the checks we hope to keep it that way, or to become even better," Sgt. Woodwards said.

traffic squad alone has carried out a thorough inspection of more than 1,700 vehicles in the city with 154 motorists being summoned to appear in court—mainly for faulty brakes.

So "drive conscious" are city motorists becoming that most Edmonton garages report an acute shortage of windshield wipers, tail lights and other parts as motorists endeavor to get their vehicles into good condition before being caught in the check.

"TRAFFIC CONDITIONS in the city are now generally good," Sgt. Woodwards said, but added that breaches of parking regulations were still fairly serious. "Our parking facilities here are very limited and any breach of the regulations constitutes a serious drawback to the flow of traffic. One of the worst offenders is the man who occupies two angle parking stalls instead of one for it prevents three or more cars being able to park," he said.

Clothing Drive Progressing Well

Today marks the half way mark in the national drive for clothing for the needy peoples of Europe. In Edmonton, the drive to date has been marked with success. According to James Long, chairman of the Edmonton committee, already one-half of the city quota of 100,000 pounds has been collected. One fully packed car, containing more than 40,000 pounds of clothing has been shipped to Regina. A second is being packed.

WITH THE AID OF Boy Scouts and the returned servicemen who are manning trucks, it is anticipated that by June 25, closing date of the drive, Edmonton will have gone far over the top in donations.

As a further effort, the committee has arranged for a special pick-up service, for any Edmonton householder who has mislaid the drive, Edmonton will have gone far over the top in donations.

Vacation Period Bible School To be Held Here July 15-26

By Helen Ferris

The first downtown vacation Bible school in six years will be held in McDougall United Church July 15-26. It will be sponsored by the Alberta Children's Work Board under the general supervision of Mrs. J.E. Buchanan, supervisor of all city vacation schools, who has been active in this work since its inception here 12 years ago. The director will be Mrs. A.G. Bohme, and the assistant director Miss Mary Shaw.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN and First Baptist Churches will join in the project.

Mimeographed invitations and registration forms have been sent home with every Sunday school child from each church, as well as to every downtown apartment block.

Classes consisting of worship, Bible study, supervised games, music and handwork will be held for two and a half hours each morning for ten days. On the closing day, a demonstration will be given and parents are invited to attend.

THERE ARE THREE age groups: pre-school, primary, and junior. The program for each group is specially designed for that group. The three classes, though in the beginning and primary departments, they are taught together.

Leaders and teachers are particularly worth while because the children are taught to love the Bible hours instead of one hour a week, as in Sunday school, and consequently a more intensive and far-reaching influence is exerted over them.

"People ask about the effect of the afternoon when there are no classes to engage their attention," Mrs. Buchanan said. "But we find that we don't have to worry about those for the children are busy thinking about what they've been taught, and practicing the things they've learned to do."

THE MAJOR PROJECT this year will be the "Save the Children Fund" for which offerings will be presented by the pupils through a canvasser by telephoning 31802.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

Habitual Sinners

Every Christian will agree that three kinds of health are required for wholesome living — physical, mental and moral. He will agree that while the first two are desirable, but may be withheld by the will of God; the third is accessible to all. Hence, if a neighbor suffers from a bodily ailment or is mentally under par, we give him our sympathy; but if he is morally diseased, our attitude becomes one of both horror and pity.

There are persons who make light of sin, but if sin becomes a habit, the effect is analogous—but infinitely more tragic in its final implications—to the drinker who flirts with drink and by degrees becomes sotted with craving. Like the drink addict, who in time finds a compulsion rather than a pleasure in drinking, the habitual sinner discovers that evil no longer wears a mask of allure, but mocks him with its reality of misery and despair.

The Bible says the wages of sin is death. All men are doomed to die, but only the unregenerate sinner is condemned to eternal death. The sinner knows that every time he succumbs to temptation he is admitting a poison into his soul and that the death he may finally reap will be of his own choosing. His ultimate folly may be the sin that drove Judas to destroy himself because he did not believe that God could ever forgive him.

God will, of course, heed the supplication of any sinner. His mercy is infinite. That is Christianity's message of consolation to weak, errant human nature. It is the message the church incessantly proclaims, especially to those unfortunate who, in the midst of their dilemma, yearn to be cleansed, but who will not find redemption until they invoke God's help to break their bonds, and having broken them, are resolved to keep faith with Him thereafter.

Importance of Social Life Stressed by W.C.T.U. Head

The promotion of a "social life" which is creative, attractive, gay and completely wholesome should be your post-war project in the community in which you live, Mrs. F. O. Grevelt of Calgary, president of the Alberta Women's Christian Temperance Union, told delegates to the 23rd annual convention held this week in Wesley United church.

The address was one of the highlights of the three-day convention attended by women from all W.C.T.U. districts in Alberta.

Mrs. Grevelt urged her listeners to promote and support the establishment of healthful recreational centres for young people, and asked members to do all in their power to bring about conditions favorable to the well-being of the country as a whole.

Mrs. Grevelt, Mrs. J. M. Fawcett, Nanton, and Mrs. A. E. Cook and Mrs. C. E. Usher, both of Edmonton, were appointed delegates to the national convention to be held in Regina, Sept. 12 to 16. Mrs. Grevelt will represent Alberta at the world convention meeting in Toronto, June 1947.

Mrs. W. C. Calver of Medicine Hat and Mrs. James Douglas, president of the Edmonton district, were made national life-members.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKES
2 cups sifted pastry flour
4 tps. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tps. sugar
Sliced fresh strawberries
Measure flour, sift with baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in blended Jewel coarsely. Add egg and milk—mix lightly. Use enough milk to make a soft dough. There's nothing like Jewel for tender, light doughs. Turn out on baking board, knead with fingers for 10 seconds. Roll to 1/2-inch thickness, shape with floured 3" cutter. Spread half of rounds with butter, cover with remaining rounds. Arrange on Jewelled pan. Bake in hot oven, 425°, about 15 min. Split white hot, butter, fill and cover with sugared sliced strawberries. Serves 6.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT
2 1/2 cups sifted pastry flour
1 1/2 cups baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup Jewel Shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
2 Brookfield eggs
1/2 cup milk
1/2 tsp. almond extract
1 cup sliced fresh strawberries
Measure flour, sift with baking powder and salt. Cream Jewel slightly—you'll find it creams so easily! Gradually blend in sugar. Beat eggs until very thick and light and add, combining well. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk, combining after each addition. Fold in flavoured and strawberries. Turn into a Jewelled mould, to 3/4 full; cover with buttered paper and tie down. Steam 1 1/2 to 2 hours. You'll find that, because Jewel is a bland shortening, the strawberries remain just as delicious as fresh berries.
